The cecTalker (“C-E-C talker”) utilizes CEC (Consumer Electronics Control), a communication standard of HDMI, and enables devices connected through HDMI cables to perform new operations. Socionext has partnered with Chip One Stop, Inc. and made evaluation samples of the HDMI model (shown above in the photo) available for purchase through “chip1stop.com”. Socionext expects that this purchasing option will offer added opportunities for engineers around the world to get hands-on experience with this unique product and help to expand HDMI usage and applications.
